Institute

History

The Sorbonne-Kazakhstan Institute was established in 2014 on the basis of cooperation between the Kazakh National Pedagogical University named after Abai (KazNPU) and the University of Sorbonne Paris Cité (USPS). This international project fully fits into the context of the development of the higher education system conducted by the Government of the Republic of Kazakhstan and taking into account the importance of international exchange in this area.

December 6, 2014, in the presence of the President of the Republic of Kazakhstan N. Nazarbayev and the President of the French Republic F. Hollande, a solemn inauguration of the Sorbonne-Kazakhstan Institute (hereinafter ISK) took place. The composition of the ICS includes three departments: "International Law", "International Relations", "Economic specialties". Education is conducted under the Kazakh-French international bachelor and master programs. About seventy percent of the disciplines in ISK are taught in French by invited French specialists. Graduates of the institute speak several languages, including French at a level not lower than B2, according to the Common European Framework of Reference for Proficiency in a Foreign Language

• Goals

One of the main objectives of the Sorbonne Kazakhstan Institute is the development of higher education in Central Asia in French, with the help of programs specially adapted to modern needs and the realities of the labor market. The Institute trains specialists who have passed through innovative methods in the field of higher education and are ready for professional activity.

• Program

Training is carried out by both Kazakhstani and invited specialists from the best universities in France
